Humphrey receives boost from united Texas party

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas Democrats—celebrated for their feuding and fussing—staged a rare display of shoulder-to-shoulder unity Tuesday as the party's liberal and conservative leaders stood beside Hubert H. Humphrey.

Gov. John Connally, a conservative and a close friend of President Johnson, was at the Fort Worth airport to shake Humphrey's hand and welcome him to the Lone Star State. He failed to appear with the vice president on his opening campaign swing into Texas last month.

Standing beside Connally was the governor's long-time political adversary, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, considered a liberal in the labyrinth of Texas party politics. The senator endorsed Sen. Eugene McCarthy for president before the Democratic convention.

"We have never in 24 years had as united a party in Texas as we have now," said Yarborough.

After the welcoming at Carswell Air Force Base—with the big Strategic Air Command bombers parked in the background—Connally told newsmen he believes Humphrey is pulling ahead but there is still a lot of work to do. Humphrey agreed.

Humphrey, with a busy day of traveling around the home state of President Lyndon B. Johnson, talked to a crowd estimated at about 10,000 packed into a downtown hotel in Fort Worth. Local observers said it was about the same size as the crowd that heard George Wallace, the third party candidate, last week.

Humphrey, continuing his theme that in his contest with Nixon it's voters vs. money, declared, "We don't have the money. But here we have the people."

With less than two weeks left before the election, Humphrey said the main issue is, "Who can the American people trust—and that's the word: trust—to lead this country."

Humphrey again denounced Nixon for failing to debate him and said to applause and laughter, "When Mr. Nixon returns to Texas you look for him under a bush because there is where you're going to find him."

Nixon barnstorms in Ohio towns

ABOARD NIXON TRAIN, Ohio (AP)—Richard M. Nixon rolled across Ohio Tuesday on a 247-mile train tour, pronouncing it time to "really get down to the nitty gritty" of the White House campaign, and assailing Hubert H. Humphrey at every stop.

The Republican presidential nominee led the most energetic day's tour of his presidential race, a trail of nine rallies from Cincinnati to Toledo, with rear platform speeches in towns like London and Deshler.

A security helicopter covered the Nixon route ahead of the train, circled over head during the rallies. In Springfield and London, policemen with rifles stood watch on rooftops as Nixon spoke.

After Nixon's Springfield speech, as he stood waving to the crowd, someone threw a small object at him. Nixon flinched, the missile hit the train and bounced away. Secret Service agents shielded the candidate, his wife and daughters. A spokesman said the missile was debris, and broke apart when it hit the train.

"It is time for us to really get down to the nitty gritty and talk about what this campaign is really about," Nixon said. "This is the clearest choice of this century."

Then, by word and mimeographed statement, he tied into Humphrey, accusing him of ignoring soaring crime, espousing programs that would put the taxpayer in hock, saying his Democratic rival "has spent four years in obedience school" as No. 2 man to President Johnson.

His 15-car train was named The Nixon Victory Special.

"This is the first whistletop of this campaign," Nixon told more than 1,000 at his first stop, in Middletown. "You've given us a sendoff that's going to send us right to Washington."

In Dayton, Nixon found a corps of hecklers—perhaps 40 or so—in a crowd which packed the courtyard near the courthouse steps, and spilled into a street beyond.

"One thing that our bearded boys in the back will learn," Nixon said, "at a Nixon meeting the cheers drown out the hecklers."

New York policemen in work slowdown

NEW YORK (AP) — Mediation efforts collapsed in the city-wide teachers' strike Tuesday, as more than one million public school pupils idled away an 11th day without education. Police patrolmen continued a work slowdown, and firemen threatened to add to New York's labor crisis with one of their own.

Theodore Kheel, heading a special three-man mediation panel in the strike by 55,000 members of the AFL-CIO United Federation of Teachers, met with Mayor John V. Lindsay, and afterwards told newsmen: "We don't plan to call any further meetings. There was no specific progress."

The UFT has struck three times during the fall school term, demanding reinstatement of 80 white teachers ousted last spring from the Negro and Puerto Rican Ocean Hill-Brownsville experimental school district in Brooklyn. Most of the city's 900 public schools have been closed off and on since Sept. 9, opening day of the new semester. Since then, there have been only 12 days of schooling for most of the 1.1 million pupils.

The Board of Education reported 316 schools open during the day, with attendance of 62,927, compared to 49,850 on Monday. In the Bronx, police said, parents or nonstriking teachers were spending the night in 29 schools, to insure that they would be open today.

The city offered its police and firemen an increase in their annual wage over two years from $9,383 to $10,759. The PBA turned it down.

Apollo hits bullseye; heroes safe, healthy

Tragedy turned to victory

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — "Fire in the spacecraft!"

That dread cry 21 months ago shot shivers of fear through the blockhouse at Cape Kennedy's launch Complex 34.

Stunned controllers watched helplessly on a television screen as flames raced through the cabin of the Apollo 1 spaceship, killing the three astronauts trapped inside.

The deaths of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee shocked a nation accustomed to uninterrupted success in the man-in-space program.

It was even more shocked when a board of review concluded that the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and its principal spacecraft contractor, North American Aviation Corp., had been guilty of poor management, negligence, sloppy work and failure to adequately consider the safety of the astronauts.

America's march toward the moon took a long detour.

A massive effort went into correcting the deficiencies. Management was overhauled and strengthened, the spacecraft redesigned and made practically fireproof and numerous safety procedures initiated. The price tag was $410 million.

The payoff came Tuesday when Apollo 7 splashed to a nappinpoint landing, climaxing one of America's most perfect manned space flights.

It was a proud moment for the thousands who have worked so hard to bounce back from the fire.

Air Force Lt. Gen. Samuel Phillips, the tough Apollo program manager, expressed the feeling of all when he told newsmen:

"Apollo 7 goes in my book as a perfect mission. In my experience this is the first space operation that's accomplished more than 100 per cent of its objectives. Our official count is 101 per cent. It accomplished everything we set out to do, and added a few more minor objectives as well."

Phillips said Apollo 7 has opened the door to a possible flight around the moon in December by the three-man Apollo 8 crew. He said the decision will be made about mid-November when all the Apollo 7 data has been evaluated. He expressed confidence a lunar landing can be made next year.

George M. Low, manager of NASA's Apollo Spacecraft Program Office, took time to praise North American Rockwell Corp. (formerly North American Aviation) for "essentially rebuilding the spacecraft, and working it over, getting it delivered. Its performance, of course, speaks for itself."

Much of the credit goes to William Bergen, 53, a veteran aeronautical engineer whom North American hired as president of its space division after the fire.

Bergen praised the team effort of NASA, North American and its subcontractors that made Apollo 7 a success.

"It was really a beautiful spacecraft," Bergen said.

The Board of Education reported 316 schools open during the day, with attendance of 62,927, compared to 49,850 on Monday. In the Bronx, police said, parents or nonstriking teachers were spending the night in 29 schools, to insure that they would be open today.

Descent took its toll—on astronauts' families

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP)—First there was the uncertainty. Then came champagne and bright, relieved smiles. And then, a few private minutes on the telephone with husbands who had been 11 days in space.

"I'm very glad it's all over. It's been a long 11 days," said Mrs. Walter Cunningham. She emphasized it twice.

The longest hour of the longest day was the last one in the flight of Apollo 7 Tuesday as the spacecraft bulled through the earth's atmosphere, then fell silent after reporting itself at 300 feet altitude.

For 20 minutes the families of Cunningham, Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra and Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele could only guess what had happened to the astronauts.

In the Schirra house in Timber Cove, Jo Schirra smiled at her guests, got up and stood near a coffee bar so she could better hear the Mission Control squawk box.

At Nassau Bay, Lo Ella Cunningham was surprised at her own calmness. "I'm more nervous talking to you than I was before, believe me," she told newsmen afterward.

In El Lago, surrounded by some two dozen people, Harriet Eisele dangled her 4-year-old son on her knee, telling him: "You'll see Daddy soon."

"Still no voice contact with the spacecraft," said Paul Haney, the space center's public affairs officer, over the squawk box.

The clock ticked on. The emotionless computers had put splashdown at 6:12 a.m. EDT.

Ten minutes go by. Fifteen. Twenty. "Gee, he's used to come in the closest," said Jo Schirra, whose husband had made two previous space flights.

"The helicopters are reporting intermittent signals," said Haney. "They think they have something in sight... We hear Wally Schirra talking with the recovery helicopter."

The tense edge was off and now there was shouting and laughing in all three homes. But not until the television picture showed their men on the deck of the Essex did the wives relax.

In all three homes there were joking references to 11 days growths of beards.

Schirra, the only veteran spaceman among the Apollo 7 astronauts, previously announced he will make no more flights. "He's going to stay with NASA until after the lunar flight," Mrs. Schirra said. "I don't think he knows yet what he's going to do after that."

Mrs. Eisele was asked if she wants her husband to go into space again. "No, I don't," she said, but "I'll accept it if he wants to go." Mrs. Cunningham said, "I'm ready and I know he probably is."

Mission called 'perfect'

ABOARD USS ESSEX (AP) — Apollo 7, blazing like a dying comet, streaked back into the atmosphere Tuesday and landed only a third of a mile from its Atlantic Ocean target, ending what officials called "a perfect mission."

Its 11-day flight helped pave the way for America's final steps to the moon.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham brought their cone-shaped space chariot scorching down from 265 miles out in space to a landing in the rain five miles from the Essex, waiting in the Atlantic Ocean near Bermuda.

"It's great to be back," Schirra said after he and his teammates were brought to the carrier by helicopter. "This mission went beautifully." The Apollo 7 crew was hustled into the carrier's sick bay for a complete physical examination, including treatment of their now-famous colts.

Dr. William Carpenter, chief recovery team physician, said a quick examination indicated the trio was feeling fine and in good spirits.

Dr. Charles Berry, chief of medical research and operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, said later that doctors on the carrier found some fluid in Eisele's right ear, but it was not considered serious. He said the crew reported suffering no pain during re-entry, but that Schirra became "somewhat nauseated" after the ocean landing.

Dr. Berry described the crew as "in really good spirits and in good shape."

The space doctor said he did not consider the flight a 100 per cent medical success. He said the biomedical harnesses, which feed heartbeat and respiration of the crew to the ground, was particularly troublesome because of continual failure. Dr. Berry said if a moon-bound crew had the same problem, he would have asked for the flight to be brought back.

The crew now faces two solid weeks of debriefings, medical examinations and reports. One of the first persons the crew talked to aboard the carrier was President Johnson.

The President told the crew by telephone, "We here in the capital and over the country and the world are so very proud of you this morning... We salute the three of you as well as the thousands of your space team... in great admiration and affection."

Eisele replied: "Thank you very much, Mr. President. It was a real pleasure and an honor."

Space officials in Houston, meanwhile, told newsmen they were "extremely happy" with the 11-day space journey of Apollo 7, planned as a check-out of the spacecraft which is to ferry astronauts to the moon.

"Apollo 7 goes in my book as a perfect mission," said Lt. Gen. Samuel Phillips, Apollo program manager. "In my experience this is the first space operation that's accomplished more than 100 per cent of its pre-planned objectives. Our official count is that we accomplished 101 per cent of our intended objectives."

He said that partly as a result of the success of Apollo 7, final consideration is now being given toward sending Apollo 8 on a flight around the moon. Phillips said a decision on the December flight will be made by mid-November.

Schirra and his teammates brought their spacecraft from the crystal purity of space into a dirty gray bank of thunderstorms and rain. The clouds prevented live color television cameras from picking up the descent of the craft.

Apollo 7 landed about five miles from the carrier.

U.N. guards call in sick

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Diplomats opened their own car doors at the United Nations Tuesday as a result of the first work stoppage in the organization's history. And gates of the big glass building on the East River were closed to casual visitors.

Two-thirds of the 150-man U.N. guard force had reported sick in a demonstration for higher pay.

Secretary-General U Thant was accompanied by two guards in plain clothes as usual, but top Soviet and Czechoslovak diplomats, normally supplied a security man, went the rounds by themselves.

Only the outside public and delegates' entrances were manned by the blue-uniformed men.

Kissing must be learned

By JEAN ADAMS

HOW TO KISS: (Q.) The other day a boy I like tried to kiss me. I wanted to kiss him but didn't know how, because I've never kissed a boy. I was afraid to try, and turned away.

Jean, how do you kiss? Help me, please!

Also, if this boy asks me why I didn't kiss him, should I tell him the truth?

L. of Baltimore, Md.

(A.) You start out kissing a boy friend just as you kiss your mother or father or sister or brother. As you go along you learn new things about kissing.

One thing you learn is that no two people kiss exactly the same way. Another is that kisses come in endless variety.

You seem to have a sensitive, considerate boy friend who should be a good teacher. Next time, hold your face up to him and let him help you learn.

If he asks you why you turned away the first time, tell him the truth.

BROTHER BOTHER: (Q.) I am 12. My brother is 15. We get along fine, but he has bad friends. They have a bad reputation and are giving my brother one.

I'd like to help him, but if I said anything he'd think I was snooping.

L. of Omaha, Nebr.

(A.) You are kind to want to help your brother. You are also wise to realize that it's very hard for a 12-year-old to try to advise a 15-year-old.

If you are sure his friends are really bad and you are not just envious, discuss the situation confidentially with your mother.

She may be able to help your brother more than you can.

Johnson signs firearms bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed into law Tuesday the most comprehensive gun control legislation passed by Congress in 30 years but said it fell short of what is needed for effective crime control.

"We have been through a great deal of anguish these last few months and these last few years—too much anguish to forget so quickly," Johnson said at a White House ceremony.

Sirhan evidence admitted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge denied Tuesday a motion to suppress evidence the defense said was seized illegally from the home of Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, charged with murdering Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Superior Judge Hervert V. Walker held that police had "reasonable authority" to enter the home without a search warrant, because one of Sirhan's brothers gave his consent.

Sirhan, 24-year-old Jordanian immigrant, faces trial Dec. 9 on a charge he murdered Kennedy. The senator was shot June 5 after winning the California presidential primary election and died a day later. Sirhan was arrested at the scene.

The evidence — papers reported to be in Sirhan's handwriting and other items — has been deemed important to the prosecution's case.

The judge noted that he was not ruling on the admissibility of the evidence, but only on whether or not it should be suppressed.

The ruling followed testimony from one of Sirhan's brothers, Adel, 29, that he told police they could search, and from Sirhan's mother that she gave no authorization.

Los Angeles police Sgt. William E. Brandt, who said he made a 30-minute search of the house and Sirhan's room with another policeman and an FBI agent as Adel watched, said he checked with superiors before doing so.

Items removed from Sirhan's room included two large notebooks, a small brown spiral notebook, a U. S. Treasury envelope with pencil writing on it, a filmstrip with three photos of Sirhan, a cardboard box with pencil writing, a damaged .22 cartridge, two physicians' business cards, two gun cleaning patches and some intro powder solvent.

The defense demanded return of the items.

Mission called 'perfect'

ABOARD USS ESSEX (AP) — Apollo 7, blazing like a dying comet, streaked back into the atmosphere Tuesday and landed only a third of a mile from its Atlantic Ocean target, ending what officials called "a perfect mission."

Its 11-day flight helped pave the way for America's final steps to the moon.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham brought their cone-shaped space chariot scorching down from 265 miles out in space to a landing in the rain five miles from the Essex, waiting in the Atlantic Ocean near Bermuda.

"It's great to be back," Schirra said after he and his teammates were brought to the carrier by helicopter. "This mission went beautifully." The Apollo 7 crew was hustled into the carrier's sick bay for a complete physical examination, including treatment of their now-famous colds.

Dr. Charles Carpentier, chief recovery team physician, said a quick examination indicated the trio was feeling fine and in good spirits.

Dr. Charles Berry, chief of medical research and operations at the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston, said later that doctors on the carrier found some fluid in Eisele's right ear, but it was not considered serious. He said the crew reported suffering no pain during re-entry, but that Schirra became "somewhat nauseated" after the ocean landing.

Dr. Berry described the crew as "in really good spirits and in good shape."

The space doctor said he did not consider the flight a 100 per cent medical success. He said the biomedical harnesses, which feed heartbeat and respiration of the crew to the ground, was particularly troublesome because of continual failure. Dr. Berry said if a moon-bound crew had the same problem, he would have asked for the flight to be brought back.

The crew now faces two solid weeks of debriefings, medical examinations and reports.

One of the first persons the crew talked to aboard the carrier was President Johnson.

The President told the crew by telephone, "We have in the capital and over the country and the world are so very proud of you this morning. We salute the three of you as well as the thousands of your space team... in great admiration and affection."

Eisele replied: "Thank you very much, Mr. President. It was a real pleasure and an honor."

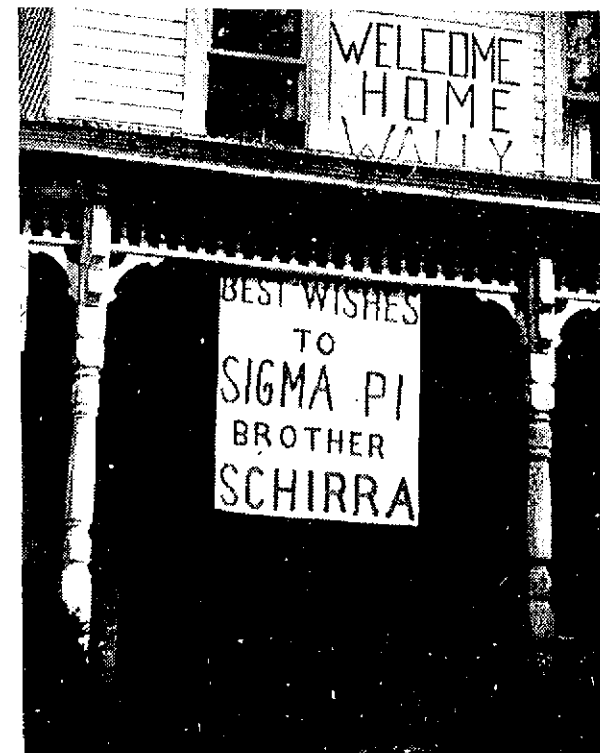

Space officials in Houston, meanwhile, told newsmen they were "extremely happy" with the 11-day space journey of Apollo 7, planned as a check-out of the spacecraft which is to ferry astronauts to the moon.

"Apollo 7 goes in my book as a perfect mission," said Lt. Gen. Samuel Phillips, Apollo program manager. "In my experience this is the first space operation that's accomplished more than 100 per cent of its pre-planned objectives. Our official count is that we accomplished 101 per cent of our intended objectives."

He said that partly as a result of the success of Apollo 7, final consideration is now being given toward sending Apollo 8 on a flight around the moon. Phillips said a decision on the December flight will be made by mid-November.

Schirra and his teammates brought their spacecraft from the crystal purity of space into a dirty gray bank of thunderstorms and rain. The clouds prevented live color television cameras from picking up the descent of the craft.

Apollo 7 landed about five miles from the carrier.

Thieu softens position

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu apparently edged closer Tuesday to the U.S. position on a total bombing halt of North Vietnam.

In a statement he said he would not oppose such a move if there was "good reason to believe" Hanoi would join in a de-escalation of the war.

Only Saturday Thieu had said the main problem "is to stop the war, not stop the bombing," and declared that a bombing halt "does not mean a march toward peace."

"We demand," he had said, "that North Vietnam must respond by a parallel good will and de-escalate the war as we have done."

It was the sliding between this demand and his willingness now to stop bombing "when we have good reason to believe that North Vietnam intends to join us in de-escalating" that the relaxation of his position appeared.

In his latest statement, however, he insisted that the North Vietnamese must de-escalate the fighting and hold talks with his government. The North Vietnamese have refused to recognize his government, calling it a U.S. puppet.

The statement was immediately seen here as a success for the United States in persuading Thieu to relax his opposition to a bombing suspension without sacrificing any of his basic demands for peace.

Shortly before the statement was issued, Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met for the fifth time since last Wednesday. Their meetings reportedly have dealt with a U.S. plan sent to Hanoi for halting the bombing as a step toward peace.

While signifying an easing of the Saigon government's attitude toward a bombing halt, the delicately phrased statement avoided spelling out any precise conditions under which a de-escalation would have to take place.

Thus it seemed to indicate that Thieu was protecting all his options in case his statement should draw a negative or unsatisfactory response from North Vietnam.

Despite the timing of the statement, immediately after the latest Thieu-Bunker conference, a government spokesman said it did not result from the meeting.

The statement also coincided with reports from Paris, where the United States and North Vietnam have been engaging in preliminary peace talks, that South Vietnam was prepared to issue its own terms for participating in formal peace negotiations.

Nixon backs new agency for students

HARRISBURG (AP) — A top education adviser to Richard Nixon said Tuesday the Republican candidate would establish a "National Youth Agency" if he became president.

The purpose of the agency, said Ray Page, would be to give high school and college students "a voice for change," and thus reduce what he called "student militancy."

Page, a Republican, is the elected Superintendent of Public Instruction for Illinois. He is making a 14-state tour on behalf of "Teachers for Nixon," a campaign organization he heads.

In discussing the proposed "National Youth Agency," Page went into little detail. He said a condition for its establishment would be the end of the Vietnam war, which he said has much to do with on-campus protests by high school and college students.

After Nixon ends the war, Page said, he will abolish the draft, another source of discontent among students. To replace conscription, Nixon has proposed setting up a voluntary army.

The educator said one item of his tour was to meet with state school officials in order to solicit their views on the former Vice President's recently introduced plan for federal aid to education.

Nixon suggests disbursing federal monies to state legislatures on the proportionate basis of how much each state pays in federal income taxes.

Gov. Shafer will consider higher pay for nursing homes

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer told a Philadelphia group seeking higher state subsidies for private nursing homes and other institutions Tuesday that there was no money left in the current budget to satisfy their demands.

The governor, however, promised to arrange a meeting between leaders of the group, the Delaware Association for Family Services, and his Priorities Commission to consider the possibility of increased subsidies in the 1969-70 fiscal year.

The association, which claims to represent 20 nursing homes, institutions for the mentally retarded, and homes for the blind, said that the 800 patients served by these establishments all are on public assistance.

The Rev. Wycliffe K. Jangharrie, association president said he and other leaders would meet with the governor's Priorities Commission within the next few days, but warned that his organization would insist on positive action.

"If we find that we are not going to get what we have asked for, then we are going out in Pennsylvania and campaign against the Republican party," the minister said.

"We are not satisfied that there is no money available."

The Rev. Mr. Jangharrie said the state's subsidy for nursing homes, which care for public assistance patients, would go from $8.90 to $1.60 per patient per day next year, but the association has demanded a raise to $15 a day.

The association also is seeking an increase in the subsidy for mentally retarded children from $5.50 to $10, the minister said.

Children leave for New York

Jackie, Onassis still moored

ATHENS (AP) — Honey mooners Jacqueline and Aristotle Onassis remained secluded aboard their luxury yacht at Scorpis Island Tuesday while her children, Caroline and John Kennedy, flew to New York to resume their schooling.

The 62-year-old bridegroom, a wealthy Greek shipping magnate who like Jacqueline is on the sea of matrimony for the second time, emerged once during the day to the deck of the yacht, the fabulously fitted Christina.

His bride, who at 39 crossed lines of age, nationality and religion in their Greek Orthodox wedding Sunday, stayed below. Soft recorded music sounded somewhere from the depths of the vessel.

The weather had moderated. Rain and sleet of the past two days moved on and the temperature, a chilly 48 degrees at the time of the wedding, edged into the balmy 60s.

Heavy smoke from the Christina's stack and activity of the crew gave signs that a honeymoon cruise might be imminent. Onassis had said the Christina perhaps would sail Tuesday.

There was no announcement as to where the couple might head on the honeymoon voyage. The Christina is perfectly capable of taking them to New York, where the former Mrs. Kennedy's secretary, Miss Nancy Luckerman, has reported they are due in about two weeks.

The Kennedy children took a nonstop Trans World Airlines flight to New York for landing at the international airport named for their father, the assassinated President John F. Kennedy.

Caroline and John were accompanied by their grandmother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, and her husband.

Also returning to New York were Jacqueline's sisters-in-law,

Patricia Kennedy Lawford and Mrs. Stephen Smith.

Her sister and brother-in-law, Princess Lee and Prince Stanislaus Radziwill, flew to London, their home, with their children.

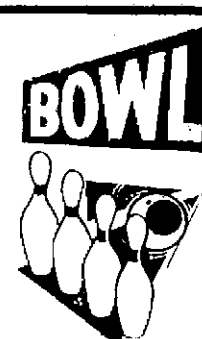

"It was a wonderful wedding," the princess told newsmen. "Everything went off perfectly well."

Mrs. Smith, at Athens Airport, observed of her sister-in-law: "Jackie may have ceased to be related to me and may have ceased to be a Kennedy, but she remains a good friend. I wish Jackie and Tels (a family nickname for Onassis) every happiness."

A religious issue, however, clouded the course ahead.

Vatican theologians held that Jacqueline, in marrying a divorced man, violated Roman Catholic canon law and would be subject to minor excommunication involving loss of rights to Communion and other sacraments.

Waterfowl project approved

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania State Planning Board has approved plans for the development of additional facilities for the Shohola Waterfowl Project Area in Pike County as proposed by the state game commission. Sen. T. Newell Wood announced Tuesday. Estimated cost of the development is $48,000.

This is the second submission by the commission for this project. The first phase, Wood said, provided for the construction of a dam across Shohola Creek and the development of multiple-use facilities including parking area, trails, picnic area and sanitary facilities.

Estimated total cost of this phase is $751,480 of which 50 per cent is being provided by the Federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Senator Wood observed.

The additional facilities to be incorporated as part of the master plan include a visitors' center, additional overlooks for the waterfall area, expansion of picnic areas and a service building to house equipment related to waterfowl development, according to the senator.

It was brought out by Wood that the first submission included only a minimum of recreational opportunity for all but the hunter and naturalist. He also stated that even prior to the completion of the impounding structure, an especially high rate of visitation has been noted, particularly during weekends.

In view of the increase in the visitation rate as the progress on the nearby Tocks Island Recreation area continues, the state officials feel that the timetable for the development of this facility should be advanced, Senator Wood said.

Mt. Bethel man placed on probation

EASTON — A 23-year-old Mount Bethel man, who pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property, was placed on probation for three years Monday in Northampton County Court.

Melvin Hamm was sentenced by Judge Clinton Budd Palmer, who accepted Hamm's plea of accepting a television set he knew was stolen from the Ronco Pharmacy, Bangor, R. D. L.

The plea was entered Sept. 16, but sentencing was deferred pending a presentence report.

Judge Palmer revoked Hamm's bail and placed him in the county jail pending preparation of a probation plan for the State Board of Probation and Parole.

Farmer's market

Seasonal farm stands are obvious landmarks along rural route as soon as the motorist leaves the city proper. They range from the smallest, one-man garden market to the more expanded and commercialized produce markets as pictured here, although they all maintain the same "homegrown" idea. Owner, Theodore Bush grows his own, specializing in potatoes, sweet corn and currently demanding pumpkins, besides the complete line of vegetables and local grown fruits.

High school band champs to march in Wind Gap parade

WIND GAP — Mt. Carmel Area High School's Band, "The Mounties," will lead the Halloween Parade in Wind Gap, Wednesday night, October 30, at 7 p.m.

A tidal wave of fresh musical expression from Mt. Carmel, the smartly costumed counterpart of the red-and-black-uniformed Royal Canadian Mounties is one of the truly outstanding and most popular bands in the county.

Having won superior class honors in Pennsylvania and national competition, "The Mounties" have been considered a championship band.

Noted for their colorful, fast-moving show, they have captured many audiences with their originality in marching and musical arrangements.

Broadcast on national television, this 100 piece high school band has thrilled countless millions in personal appearances at Yankee Stadium, Franklin Field, Forbes

Field, Briggs Stadium, Memorial Stadium in Baltimore and the new D. C. Stadium in Washington during half-time performances at professional football games.

Canadian audiences gave them standing ovations for their fine shows at Hamilton, Toronto and Ottawa, Ontario, Canada.

"The Mounties" played for the Baltimore Orioles during their drive for the American League Pennant, marched in Miss America parades, appeared in concert at Garden Pier in Atlantic City, and performed during the Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D. C.

Drum and bugle corps competitions have often featured "The Mounties," including the Cavalcade of Champions at Bucknell University, New Jersey's Grand Prix.

ESP lecture at college

BETHLEHEM — The Student Association at Northampton County Area Community College will sponsor a lecture by Martin Ebon, nationally recognized expert in extra-sensory perception.

The lecture will be held on Friday, Nov. 1, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of East Hills Junior High School in Bethlehem.

Depot Commander Col. Paul R. Poulin praised Morris Taylor, Scranton, the campaign chairman, his drive captains and all contributors. "You have done a wonderful job for your communities and yourselves," he said.

Taylor also expressed his appreciation for the cooperation he received during the three-week drive.

He reported that 768 employees or 22 per cent of the contributors elected to give the payroll deduction way.

Rooney asks FHA to demand repairs be made at village

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney said Tuesday he will press the Federal Housing Administration to take stronger action to force the Tobyhanna Village leaseholder to correct serious maintenance deficiencies in the 200-unit housing development.

Rooney said firmer FHA action is essential after receiving a letter from Assistant FHA Secretary-Commissioner P. N. Brownstein which indicated "to resort to legal action at this time is not considered advisable since the mortgage is not in monetary default."

"The letter from Assistant Secretary Brownstein clearly indicates that both FHA and the Department of the Army are dissatisfied with maintenance at Tobyhanna Village," the Congressman observed. "This dissatisfaction should be transformed into firm action to have these housing units put into proper state."

Congressman Rooney also declared he is contacting Congressman William Barrett, Chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee's Subcommittee on Housing, to seek his assistance to have the housing deficiencies corrected.

"I have examined a number of photographs of the maintenance deficiencies which were cited in the residents' petition and they are indicative of deplorable conditions which require immediate attention," Rooney said.

"I hope that it will be possible within the next week or two to visit the site and make a first-hand examination of conditions."

The Congressman also said his office has been in contact with Colonel Paul R. Poulin of the Tobyhanna Army Depot to assure the Commanding Officer that Rooney will press for corrective action. "Tobyhanna personnel and other citizens who occupy housing in Tobyhanna Village deserve far better living conditions than now exist there," Rooney said.

Jaycees hold organizational meeting West End young men

GILBERT — An organizational meeting will be held in the Gilbert Inn, Thursday at 8 p.m. for young men in the West End of the county who wish to join a Jaycee chapter which is being started.

Jaycee membership is open to all persons between the ages of 21 and 35. The organization is a businessmen's group and membership is open to all young men.

The Jaycee aim is to give young people an opportunity to take an active part in community affairs.

During the first organizational meeting, sponsored by the Pocono Mountain Jaycees, John Neff, a member of the Pocono Mountain group, was elected temporary chairman.

Eugene Mackes was elected temporary secretary and both these men are currently seeking out the names of men in the community who may be interested in joining the new chapter.

The Pocono Mountain Jaycees have offered their help in getting the new chapter started.

Recreational group wins nonprofit title

EASTON — "Vertigo" a nonprofit recreational group in Lower Mount Bethel and vicinity, has been granted a corporation charter in Northampton County court.

The charter was granted by Judge William G. Barthold. The group was formed to promote recreational facilities for young people in the area.

Judge Barthold asked why the group had chosen the name "Vertigo," and was told it was elected by young persons in the style of the times as a "far out" name.

Attending the meeting will be members of the Pocono Mountain group and also state Jaycee officers. They will help in the orientation program.

Neff said that after the orientation meeting, the new group will meet in closed session to elect officers for the year.

A buffet will be served after the meeting and all young people in the West End area have been urged to attend.

Musical group warned of using 'Tijuana Brats'

EASTON — A Northampton County judge Monday sternly warned a teenage musical group not to use the name "Tijuana Brats" under any circumstances.

Judge Alfred T. Williams Jr. issued the warning during a hearing brought by another musical group which has won the exclusive right to use the name.

While Williams denied a motion to cite the Lehigh Valley group for contempt of court, he told the group's lawyer, Frederick Nabhan, Allentown: "You must comply with the court's order positively, not just negatively."

The case was filed by a rival musical group from the Bethlehem-Easton area.

The contempt stemmed from the appearance of the Lehigh Valley group at a rally for Vice President Hubert Humphrey at the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport recently.

Frank G. McGinley, Forks Township, testified that he heard an announcer on a Scranton television station use the name on a program Oct. 7.

Kenneth Schneck, Fullerton, said the group appeared under the name of the "Huberts," a name they acquired during an appearance with Humphrey at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in August.

Nabhan took the position that the group could not be held responsible for reference to it made by other people.

Lou Reda, the "Tijuana Brats" personal manager, said the group's first record was released Tuesday.

The record made by RCA consists of "Yankeebrats" and "Karate Chop," both originals written by Purke Frankenfield and Robert Schemenek, respectively.

Country comes first

The United States is setting records and winning gold medals at an unbelievable rate in the present Olympic Games in Mexico City.

We are showing the world once again that we aren't a soft nation and that for the most part we are just as rugged and capable as at any time in our history.

However, two Negro athletes who conducted themselves so brilliantly on the field of combat, saw fit to exercise the "Black Power" gesture at the award ceremonies, putting their own personal beliefs before the United States, the nation for which they were competing.

We support the suspension of Tom Smith, who won the 200-meter dash, despite an injury, and John Carlos, who finished third in the same event and refused to march with American athletes during opening day ceremonies.

Since that time at least nine other Negro athletes have made such gestures, partly because of ill advised beliefs and partly as protest of the handling of the Smith and Carlos issue.

We have long regarded Smith as one of the top athletes in the world, but we bitterly oppose the action of the nine athletes who had displayed "Black Power" feelings while perched on the highest pedestal in the world.

Regardless of the color of an athlete's skin, the individual must adhere to rules set up by the United States Olympic Committee. Failure to follow these rules should and did bring about suspension and a one-way ticket home.

Smith and Carlos stood with eyes lowered, but black gloved hands raised high in a "Black Power" salute as the National Anthem was played.

This was an obvious slur at the United States, the country that allowed them to compete in the Olympics, the country that enabled them to receive a college education and reach a status they never could have obtained on their own.

It was obvious from their positions during the award ceremonies that they were the best in the world. They couldn't have been at a higher peak. They were the best.

They were the best, that is, until they went into their anti-American act before 80,000 spectators and millions of television viewers.

The men's 400-meter relay team, composed of Charley Greene, Mel Pender, Ronnie Smith and Jimmy Hines stood tall on the championship pedestal without any "Black Power" gestures.

None of the Negro women athletes resorted to "Black Power" actions to gain notice — and they appeared much taller among the champions than those who put their private beliefs above their country.

We couldn't have accomplished the greatness as we have in the Olympics without our Negro athletes, a fact on which we all agree.

However, they wouldn't have even been there if it weren't for this great country of ours.

Not even sick

Those who wrote off the Democratic Party as dead in Monroe County one year ago might do well to take another look at the corpse.

The Democratic Party we saw Saturday night at its annual campaign dinner was very much alive. In fact, it was more alive than at any other time in history as 122 people took part in the event at Mount Airy Lodge.

Monroe County Democratic Chairman Stuart F. Pipler and his executive committee have accomplished near miracles with the manner in which they have pumped new life into the old donkey following last November's drastic performance at the polls, at which time Frank Smith, prothonotary and clerk of court, was the only Democrat to win.

However, on Saturday night the Democrats didn't act as if they had been dead — even for a short time. Nor did they act as if they were about to suffer any setbacks in the voting booths next month.

Instead, the donkey was kicking up his heels and acting like a winner once again. Those making up the record crowd talked of the old days and of modern times, but they never once talked about defeat.

It very easily could be that this is the new Democratic Party. The new group of political figures and office seekers who grew rapidly from the ashes of defeat last November.

No, the Democrats aren't dead. In fact, they don't even appear to have been sick.

Light side

With Gene Brown

There's the story about the Florida man who had sent away for a barometer and was annoyed when it arrived with the needle stuck in a corner, opposite the word, "Hurricane."

He shook it furiously, but could not dislodge the needle. He penned a scorching letter to the manufacturer, rewrapped the instrument and drove into town to mail it.

When he returned, his house had been blown away.

A Bethel mother said the other day: "I don't want to say anything about my kids, but I go to PTA meetings under an assumed name."

Transition plan

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon intends to have his administration ready to start at a running pace the day it takes over in January — if elected.

This isn't presumptuous; it is good planning. It is important for the country that the government function well. Nixon aims to have it functioning well right off.

He wants his cabinet-in-waiting so thoroughly prepared that his new administration can take office smoothly and expertly.

He believes that past methods of getting a new administration ready during the 10-week transition period between election and taking office can be greatly improved and to do this he already has one major step in mind.

He hopes to select his entire cabinet just as rapidly as possible after it becomes clear that he is the President-elect.

His purpose is to get away from the past technique of a single transition representative — Sherman Adams for Gen. Eisenhower, Clark Gifford for John Kennedy — to smooth the way. Instead Nixon hopes to have all of his cabinet working intimately and continuously with their Johnson counterparts — ideally desk-to-desk eight hours a day.

Objects evident

Nixon's objectives are evident. He wants the smoothest, most effective, best prepared transition which outgoing and incoming presidents can accomplish.

He doesn't want to see his cabinet waste three or four weeks getting into its work if, by making his choices promptly, he can give the incoming and outgoing cabinets that much time to work together before inauguration.

He feels that the nation's problems are so acute and so urgently need instant attention by the new administration that he wants not just to "take office" but to "take hold."

This is why he aims to have not just a single transition aide conferring at the White House and writing memos, but rather to have his secretary of state, secretary of defense, attorney general, secretary of labor and the rest of the cabinet learning exactly how everything stands so that by Jan. 20 they will be on top of their jobs, know more than where the White House phone is.

In 1960 there was only one substantial and one brief consultation between President-elect Kennedy and President Eisenhower. Nixon feels that is woefully inadequate. He would expect to spend far more time in conference with President Johnson and he has no doubt that LBJ will be helpful and responsive.

Peace talks representative

There is a further proposal to smooth the transition which Nixon has been considering but on which he has not yet acted.

One of his close associates has been urging Nixon to ask President Johnson if he would allow him to send a trusted and experienced representative to Paris to keep as close as proper to the Vietnam peace talks. An example of the kind of man who would carry out such an assignment in a way satisfactory to everybody is former Undersecretary of State Robert Murphy, himself close to Nixon and a long-time associate of Ambassador Averell Harriman. Hubert Humphrey doesn't need to send any personal agent because, if he is elected, Harriman would continue at his post for a time and I doubt that George Wallace will want to send anyone. If he does, fine.

There would be two great advantages in doing this: It would mean that Nixon would be fully abreast of the Paris talks the very instant he took office. This could be crucial.

It means something more. It will put Nixon, if elected, in an ideal position to join President Johnson in some joint initiative to get the talks going better before he takes office — if that opportunity arises.

Dinner problems

WASHINGTON — You haven't really had fun until you've tried to organize a $100-a-plate political dinner. At least that's what the people promoting one for Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie tell me.

This particular dinner is to be held Wednesday, Oct. 30, at an armory in Pikesville, Md., a Baltimore suburb. When I asked, "Why there?" one of the organizers said, "Well, it was the nearest armory available! Ha, ha, that was a little joke. Considering all the trouble the Democrats had in Chicago, I figured you guys in the press would try to make something out of this dinner being held in an armory."

I assured him members of the press are not like that. Ninety-nine per cent of us are sweet and lovable. But if I were like that, I'd suggest the Dems hold their fund-raising dinners at Fort Benning, or at Maryland's Ft. Detrick, where they specialize in biological warfare for crowd control and other purposes.

"All right," the dinner organizer continued, "put down that we expect 2,500 happy, Maryland Democrats to attend. Of course, I guess you'll write that we're expecting 2,500 guests and 3,500 demonstrators." (I promised him I wouldn't.)

He then proceeded to tell me about the menu. Let me say right now that they are not going to serve wild bore (sic), half-baked Maine potato and squishy-soft pie. And dessert will not be sour grapes with cream. Actually, for their $100 the celebrants will get frozen chicken, instant mashed potatoes and canned peas.

"Seriously," the dinner planner said, "for a while we were thinking of serving cherries jubilee — you know, ice cream and cherries under flaming brandy — but we didn't know how to light 2,500 cherries jubilees at the same time. And the fire marshal was against it."

I suggested that since the dinner was to be held in an armory, maybe they could use an army flame thrower to light the cherries jubilee. But he thought I was trying to be smart-mouth again and wouldn't listen. He went on to tell me how much trouble he was having getting a "celebrity" photographed accepting a ticket.

"We went to one big actress who's appearing here and her agent said, 'Send us a memo, we'll let you know.' How nice of them to let the vice president know. Cheeeeee! Anyway, those are the facts. Now do your worst."

Relax, I said. I'm always willing to do a job on, I mean, for the Democrats.

There's a new teen-ager record called "Hush." If it's about puppy love, they should have called it, "Hushpuppy."

One nice thing about fall — you can eat indoors again and your steaks don't taste like charcoal and starter fluid.

The "guns and butter" cliché seems to be dead, but Iard knows what's next.

Humphrey-Drumhrey sat on a wall, Humphrey-Drumhrey had a great fall . . . oh, let's forget it.

Can't you see Gen. Curtis LeMay using the "hot line" to Moscow? His first message might be, "Don't call us, we'll call you."

Somebody should tell those Mexican students the Olympic committee doesn't present gold medals for the sport in which they're engaged.

The North Koreans are almost certain to return the Pueblo soon; it's due for an overhaul.

Allen - Goldsmith Report

Two F-111s missing

John A. Goldsmith

WASHINGTON — One of the highly controversial Air Force F-111 fighter planes, loaded with sophisticated equipment, may have fallen into enemy hands after it crashed in Vietnam.

The point has been raised on at least two occasions by congressional military experts. Pentagon spokesmen say only that they do not know what happened to two of the F-111s lost in the Vietnam fighting.

In all, eight of the new F-111s were sent to the United States base at Takhli, Thailand, last spring for air strikes in Vietnam at night and in bad weather. Three were lost, on March 28, March 30, and April 26.

The two pilots of the second plane were recovered, and the Air Force thinks it has pinpointed the cause of that crash — a tube of sealant left in the plane at the factory. The tube of sealing compound had apparently worked its way into the plane's control mechanism and jammed it.

For the other two crashes, however, no cause has been ascertained. Late last month the Pentagon was still telling Congress that the wreckage of the planes has never been recovered.

A month after the last of the three crashes, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., engaged in a significant exchange with Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford. Ellender was following up on a series of questions about the F-111 and its performance.

Ellender: "There is another point. As I understand, one or more of those planes may be in the hands of the enemy."

Clifford: "We don't know that."

Ellender then asked a question, based on the assumption that one of the planes did fall to the Communists. Clifford replied that, even on that basis, he would want to go ahead with the F-111 program.

Pueblo secrets

Earlier, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the Military Appropriations Subcommittee, had asked a similar question of Gen. John P. McConnell, the Air Force chief of staff.

"Do you have any information on these three that were lost? Do you know whether any of them fell into the hands of the North Vietnamese to be sent to Moscow along with all the secret equipment off the Pueblo?" the chairman asked.

"No, sir," McConnell replied. "They disappeared from the radar scope, which indicates they went down at approximately the position where they were last seen. The jungle is so thick and so tall that anything that goes down is very difficult to find unless you know exactly and precisely where it went down."

In subsequent testimony U. S. Gen. Robert G.

By MASON DENISON

HARRISBURG — The "side issue" race for Pennsylvania's lone United States Senate seat this year — and it should be anything but a "side issue" — between incumbent Democrat Joseph S. Clark and Republican Congressman Richard S. Schweiker is a contest in which no one is calling the shots insofar as the end result is concerned.

Conventional observers are referring to it as a "close race"; old pros of both parties are saying it could be a widely split affair or nip-and-tuck.

In this election year 1968 it has been an awkward contest for the two prime contenders — what with the presidential scrap stealing the overall show and the contests for the two statewide fiscal offices of Auditor General and State Treasurer lining up with the legislative contests to cap the local show.

Between the two extremes rests the senatorial contest in somewhat of an unfortunate vacuum.

One of the interesting facets of the Clark-Schweiker tiff revolves around the point that both have proven excellent vote getters in their own right — regardless of party destinies or party vote outcomes.

Without support

For example, Congressman Schweiker won his legislative spurs initially in his home Montgomery County district in spite of lack of endorsement of local GOP powers. Since then his return puts to Congress have been a breeze (with subsequent ventures backed wholeheartedly by his backyard Republican henchmen).

This year however youngblood Richard Schultz Schweiker (he's 32) has a decidedly different campaign on his hands in his contest with Democratic political old pro Joseph Sill Clark (he was 68 Tuesday) who has been in the senatorial pew since 1956.

From a philosophical standpoint the two are as different as their ages.

Last week Senator Clark yipped at his opponent on the Vietnam conflict issue, noting in part that, "he would rather not talk about Vietnam; what proposals has my opponent

Lester Coleman, M. D.

Doctor, I'd like to know —

My husband and I spent three days with some relatives and later learned that one of them was admitted to the hospital for tuberculosis. Could we have acquired it or brought it home to our children?

Mr. & Mrs. E. G., Wisconsin

Dear Mr. & Mrs. G.: There is little or no chance that either one of you may have acquired this disease with such a short exposure. The chances are even far less likely that you might have brought the germ home to your Ruegg, a deputy chief of staff, testified that the first F-111 was tracked by ground radar as it returned to Thailand. In that instance, the general said, loss to enemy action was "unlikely."

"The third loss could possibly have been due to ground defense actions. However, there is no evidence to support it," Ruegg added.

Pentagon censors cleared all the closed-door exchanges on F-111 losses for publication last month, deleting a portion of McConnell's comments. No additional material was supplied, and committee sources say there has been no subsequent elaboration by the Defense Department.

Serious matter

In his questioning of McConnell, Russell asked whether it would be a very serious matter if the Communists were to recover one of the F-111s in reasonably good shape.

"Yes," the general replied, "we have quite a few things in it that we would not want the enemy to get."

Russell suggested, and McConnell agreed, that the secrets were mainly with respect to the plane's electronic devices — the so called "black boxes" which make it possible for the F-111 to find targets and strike them in all kinds of weather.

The F-111's sophisticated electronic devices include navigation equipment and detection devices to enable it to elude anti-aircraft missiles. It also has equipment for delivering a bomb payload which is said to be two or three times as effective as that of other modern fighter planes.

One of the most spectacular of the F-111's "black boxes" is a terrain-following radar which lets the plane fly very low in all weather, at supersonic speeds, and avoid detection by enemy radar. The radar system adjusts the plane's altitude automatically, reaching ahead to compensate for hills and valleys in its flight path.

Despite all these capabilities of the F-111, Congress has killed the Navy version, by refusing to supply funds, and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., has said the same fate should be considered for the Air Force F-111. The Senate Investigations Subcommittee is scheduled to take another look at the program next year.

Congressional disenchantment with the F-111 was quite clear, however, when Russell reminded McConnell — with tongue in cheek — that Russia secured a B-29 bomber as a U.S. ally during World War II, and copied it extensively.

"I was hoping if they got an F-111 they would fabricate some of them as near ours as they could and see if they had as much trouble as we did. It could put their air force out of business," the chairman remarked.

offered to bring this slaughter to an end?"

Somewhat ironically it was that very same day that Schweiker made known his position paper, "Campaign Policy Statement on Vietnam" which said in part: I would welcome and support further reduction of the bombing if it is based upon indisputable evidence of similar de-escalatory act by North Vietnam. I do not favor a cessation of the rest of the bombing without absolute assurance, preferably through specific acts, that Hanoi will correspondingly de-escalate its part of the war. The ultimate decision can only be made rationally by the Office of the President acting on the best military intelligence from Paris."

Reiterated Clark in his Schweiker swipe last week: Stands by proposals "I stand by the proposals I have made for ending the war. I believe we must take a calculated risk for peace. I believe we should stop the bombing of the north now — but Congressman Schweiker continues to say no." (As a point of side interest, Schweiker is a member of the House Armed Services Committee.)

Clark will be seeking his third term as one of Pennsylvania's two U.S. Senators — but the circumstance will be a bit different from any of his previous re-election ventures. This year for the first time he will be in contest during a presidential election year which, should Pennsylvania be carried in a Republican Nixon sweep, could very well spell the political end of Joseph Sill Clark.

In seeking his first term in 1956, he did so at a time when Pennsylvania had its first Democratic governorship in 16 years. Six years later in 1962 Clark won his second term — when Democratic Governor David L. Lawrence was winding up his term, but it was that same election in which Republican William Warren Scranton won the governorship!

Since then there have been six years of Republican rule in Pennsylvania — which may well be one of the prime differentiating factors in whether Clark wins or loses this year.

There are now a number of tests of the skin known as tuberculin reactions. These and X-rays of the chest for both you and your children will undoubtedly be negative and will free you of the emotional distress that burdens you.

Ann Landers

Molester in family

Dear Ann Landers: We have just learned that a member of our family has molested every little girl he could get his hands on. All of us have been blind to his hideous ways and nobody suspected a thing. Parents warn their children about strangers, but who would think to warn children against a close relative?

I became suspicious recently when my 8-year-old niece came running into the kitchen — a look of terror in her eyes. I asked what was wrong. She said, "I can't tell you. I promised," and began to cry. I finally dragged it out of her. I immediately called her mother and she was shocked. This relative always insisted on taking the little girls to movies or for a ride, one at a time — "to make them feel important." Each of us recalled a few incidents which at the time had no meaning. Suddenly the pieces fell together.

Our husbands are incensed and plan to see a lawyer about the best course of action. Please print my letter and alert the mothers in your reading audience to this danger. Also, any advice to prevent this sort of thing from happening would be very much appreciated.

NO NAME

Dear No Name: "This sort of thing" is more common than you think. The best safeguards are as follows: Keep the arteries of communication open. Children who are comfortable with their parents will not withhold "secrets."

Be alert for undue attention to both little boys and girls. Always ask for a report on any and all outings. Be alert to signs of excess attention paid to a child by an older member of the family. If you have any suspicions, do not allow the child to be alone with the relative — ever.

Dear Ann Landers: Six weeks ago my husband asked me if I would go to work for him. He owns a small machine shop and I am a bookkeeper and telephone girl. I turned him down.

We have four small children and good household help is hard to get. Also, I should be honest and tell you I don't particularly enjoy office work.

I have now learned his ex-wife took the job. I'm sure nothing out-of-the-way is going on. We are very much in love and I know too much about their past to think they are cozying it up. Furthermore, she has a boyfriend. Still, I don't like the idea of my husband and his ex-wife being together all day.

That job is beginning to look awfully good to me. How do I get it without looking like a jealous woman — which I am?

GREEN EYES

Dear Eyes: Tell your husband you trust him implicitly but you'd feel better if he hired someone else.

Offer to do the books at home and come in part time to handle the phone. And start scouting around immediately for a replacement.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother always told me, "You never know a man until you live with him." How right she was.

Hank is 24. I am 23. We have been married two years. I don't know how to say this but I'll do my best. It's a gamey subject. Hank can go for two months without a shower. He never washes his hair because "water will make it fall out." I have bought him three different kinds of deodorants but he never used them.

CLOTHESPIN NOSE

Dear Nose: You can call it carelessness if you want to, Honey, but the experts call it sick, sick, sick. An adult who has the personal hygiene habits of a goat demonstrates two things. First, a total disregard for others. Second, some mighty kinky notions about himself. Your husband needs professional help. Tell the doll you are sleeping on the couch until he gets it.

S-burg police investigate three crashes

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg Borough Police reported Sunday three accidents they investigated since last Wednesday. They reported no injuries.

Sunday at 4:50 p.m. two cars collided in the IGA parking lot. Drivers were Norman Pipher of 565 Main St., Stroudsburg, and Carol Posten of 85 N. Second St., Stroudsburg.

Police said Pipher was packing from a parking space as the Posten vehicle was traveling south and they collided.

Friday at 7:45 p.m., police were called to the intersection of Fifth and McConnell Streets to investigate a two-car crash. Total damage is estimated at $360.

Drivers were Keith F. Namiotka, Richmond, Va., and Helen B. Rutt, Stroudsburg, R. D. 5.

According to police, Namiotka was traveling south on N. Fifth Street, had stopped for the traffic sign when his car was struck from the rear by the Rutt car.

Wednesday at 11:50 p.m., Floyd Storm of Delaware Water Gap, struck a deer as it crossed Rt. 611 on Foxtown Hill.

Damage is estimated at $125 to the car. The deer had to be killed due to injuries.

When hubby gets pill

A young father upon hearing his wife gave birth to quadruplets was asked how he felt. (Which is pretty amusing right there.) He turned to the reporter and said, "That sure kills my faith in the pill!"

It is my guess he also stopped believing in aspirin, the Queen, Santa Claus, the Tooth Fairy and legalized gambling.

In an effort to find out just what effect the pill has had on women, I visited the office of one of our town's leading obstetricians. One woman was sitting on the edge of a deep leather chair. "Don't let me alarm you, dear," she said. "I'm not due for seven weeks. It's just that once before I sat back in this darned chair and I had to give birth to get out of it."

"Has the pill affected you at all?"

"What pill is that?" she asked.

"The birth control pill."

"Oh, THAT pill. Don't talk to me about that. I even bought some for my dog and they didn't work there either."

"Maybe your dog is just a natural mother?"

"Who, Jack?"

"Oh, that is rather unfortunate."

"I'll say. Although now that you mention it I have noticed within the last several years I've been coming to this office a decrease in the number of expectant mothers. This office used to be jammed. If you got here late you had to read Cosmopolitan. The other week I came in here and there was no one but the Pope and I."

"THE POPE!"

"That's right, Evelyn Pope and I. She's like me . . . no more than one baby a year."

"If the pill is not effective, then what is the answer?" I asked.

"Oh, I think the pill is the answer all right," she said putting down her magazine. "I have a friend who swears by them. She bought a large bottle. Gives one to her husband every night with a glass of water. He's so engrossed in television he doesn't even look up to see what he's taking."

"But I can't possibly imagine how a husband taking a birth control pill could make a

Adoption proceedings in county

(Record Harrisburg Bureau) HARRISBURG — The State Department of Public Welfare in a just completed detailed report indicated that 24 child adoptions were completed in Monroe County during 1966.

Statistics maintained by the department show that the 24 adoptions were up from the 18 recorded during the preceding year.

Of the total adoptions in the county, 13 were children listed as being born in wedlock and 11 as born out-of-wedlock.

As to birthplace of the children adopted by Monroe County, 13 were born in Monroe County, nine were listed as born outside the county, and two of the adopted were born outside of Pennsylvania.

Adoptions were most numerous in the two to five years of age group of which there were eight adoptions. The 12 years and over group followed with seven, then six in the one to two years group and three in the under-one-year-of-age group.

Relatives adopted 13 of the children while the remaining 11 were adopted by individuals other than relatives.

Of the 24 adoptions decrees issued in the county, department records show 19 were consent decrees, four were by voluntary relinquishment and one by consent.

A look at the statewide scene shows 6,555 adoption decrees issued throughout Pennsylvania during the year with 2,758 of the children adopted born in wedlock and 3,796 born out-of-wedlock. This compared with a year earlier when 6,231 adoption decrees were reported—2,692 born in wedlock and 3,539 born out-of-wedlock.

Students canvassed the East Stroudsburg area from 5:30 p.m. to 7:45 p.m. During a similar campaign last year, about $120 was collected.

Column ideas are just about as well organized as the leaves that come drifting down, scurry along the ground and whirl into ascending eddies.

Sort of psychedelic picture flashes: The head of the house slumped watching the weekend football games and turning a deaf ear to the nagging about those very leaves.

Children on in-service day hunting under the leaf-covered sidewalks for their hopscotch marks. Golfers at Glen Brook casting around on the course like bird dogs trying to smell under which leaf their golf ball was hiding.

Cherry Valley on a misty evening glowing as if in sunlight from all the yellow maple and birch still shining on the hill-sides as Bess Trumbour's guests made their way to her party. Despite the fact that it was the night of the Democratic dinner, the Shawnee Country Club directors dinner, and the Shinn wedding in New England, there were about 90 there.

And the old house, the heart of which dates back to about 1830, had room for everybody including some enthusiastic square dancers rallied around Doc Rumsey and his merry men.

Then, of course, there's the thought of George Shick, 90, preparing to celebrate their 68th wedding anniversary and, now that his garden is ready for Spring, building a block incinerator last week. "At my age, you need exercise," he said, setting off in the brisk breeze to walk back to his home on West Main Street.

Mrs. Horgan tops Pocono Unit ALA

MOUNT POCONO — Mrs. Patrick Horgan was installed as president of the Pocono Memorial Unit 903 at a meeting held at her home in Mount Pocono.

Mrs. Lorraine Steigerwalt, director of Eastern Section, American Legion Aux., was the installing officer.

Other officers installed were Miss Marie Miller, vice president; Miss Hazel Hartman, secretary; Miss Ellen Regan, treasurer; Mrs. John Regan, chaplain; Mrs. Elmer Bisbing, historian; Mrs. Harry Taylor, sergeant at arms.

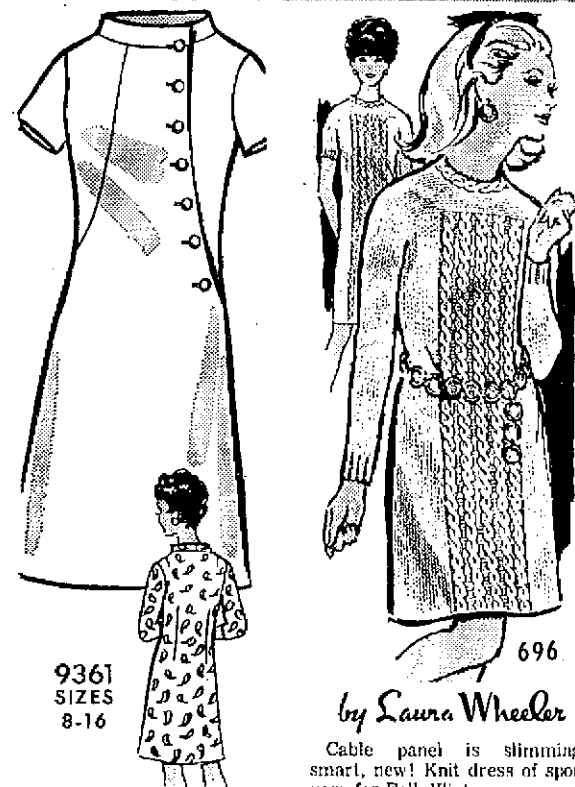

Mrs. Horgan announced that six bags, representing 120 pounds of clothing, had been collected for the Save the Children Foundation.

Mrs. Steigerwalt announced that the department is continuing to collect coupons which last year were used to purchase new furniture for the Department Headquarters in Harrisburg. This year the money will be used to purchase flag poles to be installed around the new headquarters.

The Past Presidents Parley will be held in Stroudsburg, Oct. 26, with several eligible members planning to attend.

Miss Marie Miller assisted Mrs. Horgan in serving refreshments.

Valley Forge trip opens BPW Week

STROUDSBURG — The Business and Professional Woman's Club is joining in the national celebration of Business and Professional Women's Week, with Nike, emblem of the national federation, as a "mystery" guest at their October dinner meeting.

Nike is on display in the window of Smith's Fashion Apparel, Main St., Stroudsburg, this week. Copy of a famous Greek statue of winged victory, in symbolizing the progress to achieve the federation objective in advancing woman's place in the world.

It depicts individual strength, freedom and triumph needed to face the storms of prejudice and limitations.

In their personal observance of the Week, 44 members and friends of the club had a bus tour to Freedom Foundations at Valley Forge on Sunday. They toured the foundation buildings and visited other points of interest at Valley Forge.

Speaker at their dinner meeting held at the Beaver House was Thomas W. Jones, assistant to the director of public relations of the Blue Cross of Northeastern Pennsylvania. He was introduced by Marjorie Hamblin, chairman of the public relations committee.

Blue Cross will be 30 years old on Dec. 7, he said, pointing out that it started with eight teachers at Baylor University. It now has 430,000 members and expects to enroll 500,000 by 1970.

"Within the next year you will be hearing much about prescription drugs after the patient leaves the hospital and about dental care," he said.

Admitting that many people are questioning the rising cost of Blue Cross rates, he said that when there is more going out than coming in there has to be a leveling off.

"We could perhaps offer the same low cost rates as we had in 1939," he said, but that would mean dismissing X-rays, cobalt treatment, radium and other special services, but it is nice to know that we have these life-saving devices to help you."

During the business meeting, conducted by President Millie Everitt, plans for the Business and Professional Woman's Week Oct. 20 to 27 were discussed.

Members of the public relations committee who assisted Mrs. Hamblin in the program were Betty Clark, co-chairman; Betty Boushell, Dorothea Britten, Esther Scott, Ida Jolley, Frances Kudy, Florence Ridgeway and Verna Tyeitman.

Forestry Assn. dinner Saturday

PARADISE VALLEY — The Pocono Forestry Assn. will hold its annual dinner on Saturday, Oct. 26, at 6:30 p.m. in Crescent Lodge, Route 191, Paradise Valley.

Speaker will be Frank W. Dressier, executive director of TIRAC.

The purpose of the Pocono Forestry Assn. is to promote conservation in the Poconos including fire prevention, reforestation, flood control, wild life preservation and public education.

The public is invited. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. James P. Smith or Crescent Lodge.

Shicks' 68 years span many changes

STROUDSBURG — The date was Oct. 24, 1900 when George Shick and Jennie Anglemier drove by horse and buggy to the parsonage of the Reformed Church in Tannersville to be married. The bride had already done the churning before getting dressed for her wedding day.

On Thursday, the Shicks will observe their 68th wedding anniversary at their home at 1180 West Main St., Stroudsburg.

It will be a quiet celebration because Mrs. Shick has been an invalid since a fall about a year and a half ago. She was 80 in April.

Mr. Shick, 90 in February, has already cleared his large garden and ploughed it in preparation for Spring planting.

Their married life has spanned incredible changes in the customs of the people and the county in which they have lived. They were born in Tannersville.

Shortly after their marriage Mr. Shick bought the blacksmith shop in Swiftwater in which he worked for 40 years. They made the first wagons for Pocono Manor and specialized in horse shoeing.

Mr. Shick did his last blacksmith chores about five years ago before he sold the equipment which he had moved to the service station on West Main St.

Shick served as County Commissioner from 1936 to 1947, elected with Lawrence Hamsey and Bill Quick, and re-elected for two more terms.

The big task of the commissioners in those years was paying of the half million dollar debt in the county, including $125,000 owed on the County Home.

Another big responsibility during those years was the administration of the county relief. "On Thursdays we never were finished before 6 p.m.," he recalled.

"The pay wasn't much," he remembered. "I see where they raised the commissioner's salaries by $1,800 this year. In those days $1,800 was our total salary for the year."

"We never levied more than a 10 mill tax and the total valuation of the county was between 20 and 21 million dollars. Now I guess it's over 100 million."

"We had some pretty good arguments in our time, too," he recalled. "Bill Quick and I were good friends, but he said what he thought no matter whose toes he stepped on. We'd both want to attain the same ends, but we'd have different ideas about how to do it. But I enjoyed those years."

Shick was also engaged in many other community activities. He was a member of the Automobile Club for 37 years, and was a director of the General Hospital for nine or ten years.

He is still a member of the Odd Fellows Lodge which he joined in 1899, the year before he was married.

Mrs. Shick was the homemaker. With seven children to raise that was a career in itself.

Their oldest son, Russell, died about six years ago. Other children are Ethel Back of Swiftwater, Dorothy Sheer of Blairtown, Homer Shick, chief clerk, Roanoke, Va.; Clarence Shick, chief engineer with Atlantic Refining, of Atlantic City; Roger who has a funeral home in Keene, N. Y., and Miss E. Helen Shick, at home.

"I don't know what we'd do without Helen, now," he observed. Miss Shick taught first grade in the Tannersville school 35 years before her retirement.

Carole Ann Hunter wed in Canadensis

EAST STROUDSBURG — Miss Carole Ann Hunter, daughter of Mrs. Florence A. Hunter of East Stroudsburg RD 1 became the bride of Daniel Joseph McConnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McConnell of 1124 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg in the Canadensis Methodist Church.

Rev. John Zondag performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with ferns and large vases of white gladiolas, pompons and chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her uncle, John Holvaek, the bride wore a Victorian style gown of candlelight ivory satin with a double chapel length train. The bodice and sleeves of the A-line gown were covered in Chantilly lace. Her veil was held by a crown of brocade satin. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Maureen Stack of Canadensis was maid of honor.

Miss Shafer is bride of George Roth

STROUDSBURG — Miss Susan May Shafer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Shafer of Stroudsburg, was married to George R. Roth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Roth of Port Washington, N. Y., at the Church of United Nations, New York City. Rev. J. Christopher officiated at the informal ceremony.

The bride received her bachelor of arts at Cornell University and her master of arts at Temple University. Her husband received his B.A. and M.A. at Dartmouth College.

They will reside in Geneva, Switzerland.

Opening lead — ten of hearts.
This hand is from a par contest. South arrives at three notrump on the bidding shown and West leads the ten of hearts. South is expected to make the contract without seeing the opponents' cards, but, to do so, he must avoid two traps.

Declarer's first test comes on the opening lead. He should duck the heart in dummy and also duck in his hand when East follows low.

It is not difficult to place West with the king of hearts, and declarer should refuse the first trick in order to interfere with East-West communications. If he makes the mistake of winning the heart lead, he is eventually defeated when East returns a heart upon taking the lead with the queen of diamonds.

Let's say West continues with the nine of hearts at trick two (his play does not really matter). South wins in his hand and returns the ten of diamonds, won by East with the queen. As East does not have a heart to return, he leads back the ten of clubs.

Again South must make the right play. If he makes the mistake of finessing the club, West will win with the king and lead the third round of hearts to establish his suit. Since West still has the ace of diamonds as an entry card and declarer has only seven high-card tricks he can run with, the contract will go down two.

But if South goes up with the ace of clubs at trick four and leads back the nine of diamonds to force out the ace, he guarantees nine tricks, come what may.

He cannot be denied three spades, three diamonds, two hearts and a club, and is thus fully rewarded for refusing the ten of hearts at trick one and the club finesse at trick four.

Students select Nixon

EAST STROUDSBURG — Miss Ann Baxewanis, an East Stroudsburg State College senior student teacher, recently planned and directed a "National Presidential Election for Grades Three to Six" at the ESSC Campus Learning Center.

The students of James Turner's fifth grade class, under Miss Baxewanis' guidance ran their own national election.

This included campaigning, creating political slogans, constructing political hats, devising an electoral college, and voting with secret ballots.

The voting was then opened to the students of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades. According to the results, Richard Nixon won in a landslide, with Hubert Humphrey and George Wallace trailing.

O'Brien would plug holes in state tax laws

SWIFTWATER — Peter J. O'Brien, Democratic candidate for State Representative in the 139th District, said Tuesday night that Pennsylvania could finance new programs in the fields of education and nursing by closing existing loopholes in present state revenue laws.

The Mount Pocono attorney, speaking to a pre-election gathering of voters of both parties in Paradise Township, gave the example of the $126 million loophole created by special manufacturers exemptions in the state sales tax law.

O'Brien said if elected he would fight to have this loophole closed so that programs urgently needed for the welfare of the families of Pennsylvania could be promptly enacted.

He cited a comprehensive scholarship program for nurses, an increase in nursing home subsidies and a long range plan for keeping teacher salaries in line with the cost of living.

VanBuskirk services held

EAST STROUDSBURG — Funeral services for John M. VanBuskirk, 19, of 144 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, were held Monday in the Lanterman Funeral Home with the Rev. William F. Wunder officiating.

VanBuskirk was run over by a car early Sunday morning near Bushkill.

Burial was in Prospect Cemetery.

Palibearers were Oscar Lewis, Robert Plattenburg, Ike Himeine, Harold VanBuskirk, Larry LaHade and Joseph Wall.

Lloyd Metzgar, ex-resident, suffers attack while driving

EASTON — Lloyd Metzgar, 57, son of Mrs. Sadie Cramer Metzgar of Analomink, and the late Claude Metzgar, died Tuesday of a heart attack following an accident in Easton.

Mr. Metzgar of 242 N. Tenth St., Easton, was assistant secretary and treasurer of Victor Balata & Textile Belting Co., Palmer Township.

Easton Police said Metzgar apparently died of a heart attack before the accident.

Joseph Reichel, Northampton County Coroner, said Tuesday after an autopsy was performed that the cause of death was not established because laboratory tests have not been completed.

Police said Metzgar was traveling west on Ferry St. when his car struck a parked car owned by Harry Jones of 527 Ferry St., mounted the sidewalk, then traveled back to the center of the highway and came to a stop.

Witnesses told police that Metzgar was sitting upright in the driver's seat with a glazed look in his eyes following the accident.

A passerby loosened his seat belt and Metzgar fell to the seat.

Police said they understood that the dead man had been under doctor's care for a heart condition.

Mr. Metzgar was born in Analomink and had lived in Easton the past 41 years.

DRBC amends plan to save Sunfish Pond

By PETE GRADY
POCONO MANOR — The Delaware River Basin Commission Tuesday ruled out Sunfish Pond as a pumped storage site for the generation of hydroelectric power in conjunction with the Tocks Island Reservoir.

The commissioners amended the DRBC's comprehensive plan with respect to hydroelectric power with the four state commission members voting yes and its federal government member abstaining.

Conservation groups had vigorously protested the use of the glacial lake as a holding reservoir.

The United States' government member Vernon D. Northup, U. S. Department of the Interior, said later in the DRBC's regular monthly meeting at Pocono Manor that his abstention from the amendment in no way "voiced federal opposition" to the dropping of Sunfish Pond or the use of pumped storage.

Northup told a public audience of about 200 that clearances were necessary from several federal agencies before the federal government could approve the amendment.

He added that the DRBC compact states that the federal member of the commission can abstain from voting for 60 days which would give sufficient grace to analyze any federal-state complexities that might arise from the approval of the amendment.

William Miller, general counsel for the DRBC, pointed out that there was "no conflict" in Northup's abstention. The amendment is effective as of now, he said, and the federal government's abstention is not binding.

On the question of hydroelectric power the amendment spelled out that the multiple purpose concept of the project permits a combination pumped storage and conventional hydroelectric power development for maximum use of this water resource.

Pumped storage may include a pumping and generating plant downstream of Tocks Island Dam, an upper reservoir on Kittatinny Mountain, penstocks (floodgates), tunnels and power substations and transmission lines, the amendment continued.

The amendment stated that Sunfish Pond's recreation and conservation values shall not be impaired by the project and that the construction of the upper reservoir shall be built with "minimum disruption of the natural environment."

Floodgates and transmission lines from the pumping-generating plant on the western slope and on top of Kittatinny Mountain "shall be underground," according to the amendment.

Henry Smith, Washington, N. J., president of the Lenni Lenape League, informed the commissioners that a representative of Greer Atlantic City Electrical Co., Atlantic City, N. J., had told him that "peaking power" which takes care of high power loads during the day could be used in place of pumped storage on Kittatinny Mountain.

Smith claimed that 800 families in the Tocks Island area had been upgraded for the proposed construction of Tocks Island National Recreational Park. Recreational areas will be degraded by private power groups building commercial sites near the park region.

Smith said.

Kenneth Sharon, a Pennsylvania Department of Health official, testified against the non-degradation of high quality waters amendment.

Dead man's bloody car found on remote New Jersey mountain

By JIM SHAFER
POCONO RECORD REPORTER
MILLBROOK, N.J. — A blood-spattered car owned by Alfred Louis Barnes, 41, of Bethlehem, who was found dead Saturday afternoon in an open field near Effort, was recovered Tuesday at 11 a.m., parked with lights burning, on a fire trail on Millbrook Mountain.

Charles "Chick" Anderson of Columbia, N.J., while working on a fire trail between Rattlesnake Spring and Catfish Pond, on Camp Mohican property, discovered the abandoned car.

"The car was parked about a half mile off the main road and had the headlights on. It was a nice looking car and I wondered why it was parked back in the woods," Anderson said.

"I thought it might belong to some hunters, but then I wondered how in the world they got the car across the big gutter alongside the road and back in the fire trail.

"The car sat right in the middle of a big mud hole and how police are going to get it out is beyond me. Police from Blairstown came to the area right after I called. Then there were State Police from Fern Ridge, Hazleton, and I believe from Trenton.

"They went over the car very carefully from what I could see," Anderson said.

"When I found the car, I walked right up to it and looked inside. I thought, if it belonged to some hunters there would be a lunch bag or something like that in it, but when I looked inside I saw no lunch bag or suitcases... nothing.

"There was blood on the inside of the car, on the door and window. I didn't see any bullet holes in the car but that doesn't mean there were none there," Anderson concluded.

Anderson has been employed by the Forest Department the past seven years and has driven taxi cab in Stroudsburg during the summer months when there is no work for him with the department.

State Police at Hazleton, Fern Ridge and Wyoming had "no information for the press at this time."

A woman employed by state police at Hazleton to answer the telephone, police radio and do clerical work, said she knew nothing about the car other than that "I hear it has been found."

Believed to be at the scene late Tuesday night, were Lt. Andrew Balgis and Detective

Sergeant Michael Dean, both from Hazleton headquarters, and Cpl. Paul Klechner, bureau of criminal investigation, state police district headquarters in Wyoming.

Other Pennsylvania State Police and New Jersey State

Police at the scene are unknown.

The 1969 Ford Thunderbird with a white bottom and black vinyl top was located about 44 hours after the dead man's body was found by Lee Hoffner of Saylorsburg R.D. 1 in an open field near Effort with two bullet holes in his head and another through the right hand.

Hoffner found the body while hunting on the farm owned by Marsh Merwine.

The dead man was lying face down and was wearing a white shirt, tan colored windbreaker, brown slacks, and brown shoes.

Barnes, a bachelor, had been employed as a secretary to C. G. Tebelman, personnel manager for Bethlehem Steel Co., mining department, Bethlehem.

His co-workers described him as being well liked and a good worker. A neighbor described him as a "loner."

Monroe County Coroner John C. F. Foelker, late Tuesday night left for the scene.

Jury to receive case today involving E.S. arson charge

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Court resumed its schedule of criminal trials Tuesday with the opening of the case of Ralph Booth, Minisink Hills, who is charged with arson.

Booth was arrested by Corporal Stanley Komosinski, Pennsylvania State Police, on Nov. 15, 1967, and was charged with starting a fire in the lavatory on the second floor of a three-story building at 24 Washington Street, East Stroudsburg, on November 11.

The morning session began with the empaneling of the jury which took nearly two hours. A total of 42 names were called before Assistant District Attorney Philip P. Santucci and defense council J. Joseph McCluskey agreed on the final 12 jury members.

Five witnesses were called to the stand in behalf of the Commonwealth, beginning with Edward Flory, 81 North Broad St., East Stroudsburg.

Flory testified that at the time of the fire, he was a volunteer fireman with the Acme Hose Co. No. One, East Stroudsburg.

Flory said that he was on the first truck which answered the call and that he was among the firemen who extinguished the blaze. He also said that he investigated the cause of the blaze.

After lengthy cross-examination by McCluskey concerning Flory's qualifications in determining the sources of fires, Flory was permitted by Judge Arlington W. Williams to give his opinion of the source.

Flory said that the fire was started by lighted cigarette butts being dropped on bits of toilet paper and an empty cigarette package which had been dropped between the inner and outer walls of the lavatory through a small hole in the inner wall.

He also stated that in his opinion, the fire was the result of an incendiary origin and that the hole in the wall was too small to have received the cigarette butts accidentally.

Corporal Komosinski then took the stand and testified about his investigation of the fire and his subsequent arrest of Booth, Komosinski, fire marshal for Troop N, Hazleton, Pennsylvania State Police, for the past six years, said that in his opinion, the fire was of an incendiary origin.

East Stroudsburg Police Officers Arthur Gilliland and Stanley Deskevitch testified that they saw Booth on the sidewalk in front of the building at approximately 5:20 p.m. on the day of the fire.

They also said that they heard the fire whistle at approximately 5:40 p.m. and returned to the scene to investigate.

Jack Cook, a resident on the second floor of the building where the fire started, was the last witness for the prosecution.

Cook said that he saw Booth coming out of the lavatory at about 5 p.m. and that about five or ten minutes elapsed between the time he saw Booth and the time the fire was discovered.

Booth took the stand after Cook and he testified that he was in the building to visit a friend whom he discovered was not at home.

Booth said that he was not in the building at 5 p.m. but that he was in the building at approximately 2:30 p.m. when he saw Cook.

Booth denied that he had been in the lavatory on that particular day and he said that he did not start the fire.

Booth's testimony was followed by the summation by both attorneys after which Judge Williams adjourned court until today at 9:30 a.m. at which time he will charge the jury.

Serving on the Booth jury are Russell P. Balmer, John Baymore and Garet L. Rumsey, all of Stroudsburg; Dorothy Goldy and Berne F. LaBar, both of East Stroudsburg; Alvin Cardozo and Everlina Jones, both of Conlaugh Twp.; Edward Vost, Stroud Twp.; Sidney M. Newcomb, Smithfield Twp.; Shirley Murray, Mount Pocono; Bettie Kunkle, Chestnut Hill Twp., and Herbert Calvert, Hamilton Twp.

Resort banquet Thursday

MOUNT POCONO — The annual banquet of the Central and Western Divisions of the Vacation Bureau will be held at Mount Airy Lodge, near Mt. Pocono, Thursday, starting at 6:30 p.m.

The annual dinner-dance of the Top of the Poconos Association and Chamber of Commerce will be held on Thursday, Oct. 31, at Pocono Manor Inn, Pocono Manor, starting at 7 p.m.

The two affairs are billed as "the two fall social events of PMVB divisions."

Mrs. Ela Vannatta, president, and Fred Jarrett, vice president, officers of the Central Division, see the Central-Western affair "a social event that will bring together resort leaders of the two divisions and others."

Mrs. Vannatta said, "We expect the biggest turnout in the history of the banquet." Dancing will follow the Central-Western Divisions dinner. Cocktails, ala Dutch treat, will be served from 6:30 to 7:30. With the banquet scheduled to get under way at 7:30 p.m. at Mount Airy.

Glenn Kissel, President of the Top of the Poconos organization said, "Our annual dinner-dance is awaited yearly by our membership. We look forward to a record attendance of leaders of the resort industry and their colleagues."

Debate set at Lehigh

BETHLEHEM — U. S. Rep. Fred B. Rooney, Democratic candidate for re-election from Pennsylvania's 15th District, along with Peter G. Cohen, Independent candidate for representative in congress, and Lehigh County Sheriff Paul E. Henderson, Republican candidate for the same seat will participate in a debate at Lehigh University at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday in Packard Laboratory Auditorium on the campus.

The program is open to the public.

The debate is sponsored by the Lehigh chapter of Pi Sigma Alpha, national political science honor society which this year has been sponsoring a series of appearances by senatorial and congressional candidates. Stephen D. Bryen, instructor in government at Lehigh, is faculty adviser of the honor society.

Dr. Donald D. Barry, associate professor of government at Lehigh University, will be moderator for the debate which will be limited to two areas of discussion.

Nun injured during fall

EAST STROUDSBURG — Sister Immaculee, IHM, principal of Notre Dame Catholic High School, East Stroudsburg, is in the General Hospital of Monroe County for treatment of a broken vertebrae.

Sister Immaculee was injured Sunday when she misjudged the distance to a chair as she was sitting down. She fell to the floor and was later taken to the hospital.

She will be hospitalized for two weeks.

Attending a Project 11 meeting in the Stroudsburg Area School District Monday were, left to right, John Kupice, Project II Trainee; Dr. Roland Hughes, Instructor; Samuel O. Wells III, Assistant Superintendent; Earl F. Graner, Superintendent; and Palmer Dyer, Superintendent of the Stroudsburg Area School District.

Superintendent, Stroudsburg Area School District; Earl F. Graner, Superintendent, Stroudsburg Area School District, and Palmer Dyer.

Project 11, mass teaching aide, progressing

STROUDSBURG — Members of Project 11, a program designed to provide an educational staff member trained in the application of instruction media in the curricula of the schools of Monroe, Northampton and Pike counties, met Monday in Stroudsburg Area School District.

The primary purpose of the project is to improve the quality of classroom instruction through the application of machinery and other instructional materials.

The educational machinery has the capability of providing effective instruction in large groups while also allowing greater attention to individual pupil instruction.

Trainees in the project and their local districts are John Kupice, Stroudsburg Area; Clyde Messinger, East Stroudsburg Area; Roy Seems, Pocono Mountain Area; and David Godshall, Pen Argyl Area.

County Cohen group ready for big push

EAST STROUDSBURG — Members of the Monroe County Cohen for Congress Committee met Monday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Farmer, East Stroudsburg, to review plans for the balance of the campaign on behalf of Peter G. Cohen, independent candidate for U.S. Congressman from Pennsylvania's 15th District.

Farmer, who together with the Rev. Dr. John Oliver Nelson is co-chairman of the group, stated, "The thrust of our drive during the remaining two weeks of the campaign is to concentrate in Monroe County to advise and remind voters of all parties that Cohen is Monroe County's only candidate for Congress."

"In addition, we feel that Cohen is the best qualified of all candidates to represent the entire district. With the advent of the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area and related developments, this is where the action is going to be and it is important to all citizens of Monroe County to have someone knowledgeable about and sensitive to the needs of our county representing us in Washington."

At Monday session, the Cohen for Congress Committee plans centered around an accelerated poster program, direct mail distribution of campaign literature, and door-to-door solicitation on behalf of the candidate throughout the county.

Tentative plans for a Cohen for Congress motorcade throughout the area were also discussed.

"Ours is an entirely volunteer operation," Farmer stated. "The committee includes representatives of both major parties and we can always use more money and manpower."

Cohen will appear in a debate tonight with the incumbent Representative Fred B. Rooney and Republican Candidate Paul E. Henderson at Lehigh University at 8:15 p.m. in Packard Laboratory Auditorium. The program is open to the public.

Why do boys turn cool

By JEAN ADAMS

A BOY LOSER: (Q.) I'm 16. I used to be popular with boys but this year I can't hold on to one. I asked two of my old boy friends why they broke up with me. They didn't have any explanation. Other boys I've dated have cooled off all of a sudden, too.

After four of these experiences, I went to my two best girl friends. They promised to help me even if it meant hurting my feelings, but they haven't been able to.

Now it's happened again! I met this new boy and everything was going great. Then he reduced all his activity to a simple "Hi."

I'm cute and have lots of friends, so this foul-up puzzles me.

A Reader in Winter Park, Fla.

(A.) The fact that your friends seem to be as much in the dark as you are indicates it's not a simple offense like bad breath or body odor.

Maybe it's some change in your behavior, or a new mannerism you've picked up, or something you say.

Think about all your recent dates. Do you remember any particular action or anything you said that seemed to irritate a boy? If so, resolve not to do or say anything similar again.

I am sending you a teen booklet that may help you improve your dating techniques.

LONG HAIR: (Q.) My parents and I are going through it again about my hair. How long should a boy's hair be?

A Reader in Tulsa, Okla.

(A.) Longer hair is definitely in for men. But it must be well-styled, well-kept, and stay within the limits.

I go along with many of the schools that have made rules on hair length for boys — no longer than your collar, ears, and eyes.

Portable TV taken in theft

STROUDSBURG — Ted Getz of 1155 W. Main St., Stroudsburg, told Stroudsburg Borough Police that his home was burglarized Friday night.

Getz told police a portable television set, a transistor radio, and three dollars in cash were taken from the home.

Bernard G. Ryle

Researcher to speak at ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — Bernard G. Ryle, Director of Research at the AMP Corporation, will lecture on "Liberal Arts Education in Preparation for Industry" in the East Stroudsburg State College auditorium at 8 p.m. today.

The program is the first of a series sponsored by the Liberal Arts Division of ESSC to present to the students the challenges and careers in the natural sciences.

Ryle has been research director at AMP since 1962. His primary professional interest has been in the study of rare earth and transuranic elements.

The public is invited to attend the lecture.

New fossil species located at Gap

DELAWARE WATER GAP — A new species of fossil which proves the existence of a new prehistoric animal believed to be a relative of jellyfish 425 million years ago, has been found near Delaware Water Gap.

Two Rutgers University geologists found the fossils while on a two-day field trip last May 18. The discovery was announced in the latest issue of "Science" magazine.

The specimens were found in a road cut along the shoulder of Route 611 near the portal of Delaware Water Gap, by Paul Truax of Phoenixville, a sophomore at Rutgers.

The fossils are flat ovals about two inches long and about one inch wide. Lines radiate from the center of the oval edge.

The discovery is unique and of importance in the fact that the fossil was previously an unknown relative of the jellyfish dating to 425 million years ago.

First find

Dr. Steven Knox, associate professor of geology at Rutgers and in charge of the field trip during which the fossil was discovered, said no previous record was found that these particular prehistoric animals existed in the Western Hemisphere.

Related specimens were found in Australia in 1947. The find in Australia was the first of a new class of animals. The newly discovered fossil, however, is of a different genus and there were three separate species in the genus.

Dr. Helgi Johnson, professor of geology at Rutgers, determined the importance of the fossils as new examples of prehistoric animals.

The new genus was named "Rutgersella." One of the species was named "Rutgersella truaxi" while the second species was named "Rutgersella delawarensis." The third species was called "Rutgersella kittatinnyensis." The first was named after the sharp-eyed student who found it, the second for its location and the third after the Kittatinny Mountains.

Dr. Johnson said the discovery is the first find for a remarkable fossil in North America. He was unable to say how closely related it is to the 1947 Australian discovery. The find in Australia dates back 650 million years.

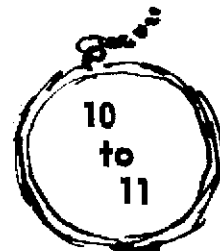

If the fossil found at Delaware Water Gap and in Australia are closely related, Dr. Johnson said, it means that the line of evolution stayed on at least 225 million years after the Australian animals lived.

So much debris from World War II litters the islands of Micronesia that scrap metal ranks as the United States' most valuable export, after copra.

Combination chart indicates daily closing stock indexes over period of a month. UPI Indicator is based on net percentage change of all issues traded of the 1,675 stocks listed on the big board. New York Stock Exchange based only on common shares, weighted by number of listed shares of each stock, expressed in dollars and cents. American Stock Exchange index based on net changes of all stocks and warrants, divided by number of issues traded, expressed in dollars and cents.

Volume drops

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks dropped into reverse gear Tuesday, largely reflecting some evening-up operations prior to another Wednesday shutdown and partly reflecting the uncertainty regarding the rumored Vietnam peace offensive.

Observers described the market as one believing it would continue in this fashion, possibly until after the presidential election or until something concrete materializes at the Paris peace talks. U.S. and North Vietnamese diplomats are to meet Wednesday for the 27th time.

Early in the day the financial community drew hope from reports South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu was no longer opposed to a conditional halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. Last weekend he said such a move was "impossible."

Further encouragement was derived from rumors that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong had ordered a virtual cease-fire to induce the U.S. to halt the bombing.

The UPI stock market indicator, measuring all stocks traded, showed a decline of 0.14 per cent on 1,563 issues crossing the tape. Declines led advances, 745 to 551. There were 95 new highs and 6 new lows.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which reflects movement in the blue chips, lost 4.35 to 983.11.

The New York Stock Exchange index mirrored a decline of 17 cents in the average common share price.

Turnover amounted to 13,670,000 shares, versus 14,380,000 shares traded on Monday.

Institutional trading was about in line with the previous session, as 62 blocks of 10,000 shares or more changed hands, one more than on Monday.

which included seven winners, just as many losers and one unchanged.

G & W climbed 2 1/2 to 52 on 192,900 shares, including one block of 20,000 shares at 50. A spokesman for the company said it is committed to a $13 million investment in community antenna television by Dec. 31.

In second place was Brunswick, which added 1/2 to 20 on 167,800 shares, including a block of 10,000 shares at 20.

In the chemicals, Eastman Kodak weakened a point, despite record third quarter earnings. Dow added 1/2 on a bright statement for the same period.

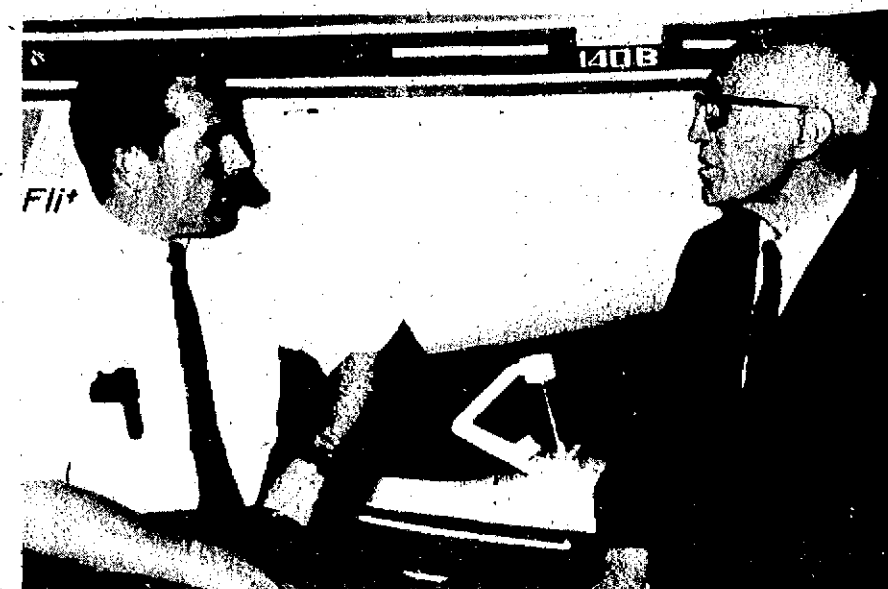

Furthermore, Dow and Hartford Fire Insurance announced termination of their merger negotiations.

Arthur E. Gussett

FT. POLK, LA. — Army Private Arthur E. Gussett, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Gussett, Stroudsburg R.D. 1, has completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-16 rifle, M-60 machine gun and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Larry D. Edinger

FT. POLK, LA. — Army Private Larry D. Edinger, 21, son of Mrs. Helen L. Edinger of Stroudsburg R.D. 2, has completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Raymond Treibel

EAST STROUDSBURG — SP5 Raymond Treibel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Treibel of 120 E. Broad St., East Stroudsburg, was discharged from the United States Army last month at Oakland, Calif.

Treibel was attached with the Army Security Agency. He spent two years in Ethiopia, 11 months in Vietnam and was an electronics equipment repairman. He was awarded the Purple Heart Medal and Army Commendation Medal.

He graduated from East Stroudsburg High School in 1962.

Alan P. Young

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. — Alan P. Young, son of Mrs. June P. Young of Spruce Mountain Rd., Canadensis, and Thomas B. Young, Las Vegas, Nev., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland AFB, Tex.

The lieutenant, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to Craig AFB, Ala. for pilot training.

LT. Young, a graduate of Pocono Mountain High School, Swiftwater, received his BSEE degree in 1959 from Lehigh University, Bethlehem.

John V. Ace

MINISINK HILLS — John Victor Ace, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude V. Ace of Minisink Hills, is enrolled in the United States Navy's Quartermaster's School, Newport, R.I. He enlisted in the Navy last July.

He graduated from East Stroudsburg High School in 1968.

Richard L. Oltmann

PLEIKU, VIETNAM — Army Specialist Four Richard L. Oltmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph D. Oltmann of Stroudsburg R.D. 3, was awarded a letter of appreciation Oct. 3 while serving with the Fourth Infantry Division near Pleiku, Vietnam.

He earned the award for meritorious service as a mechanic.

John R. Bertucci Jr.

USS TORTUGA — Gunners Mate Seaman John R. Bertucci, Jr., United States Navy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Bertucci, Sr. of 99 Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, participated in Operation Reel Cadence, a training exercise, while serving aboard the deck landing ship USS Tortuga.

Operation Reel Cadence, conducted off the coast of Southern California, was designed to prepare the 30 Naval ships and 23 air units participating in the exercise for conditions in Southeast Asia and the Western Pacific.

The eight-day exercise consisted of two phases, strike and amphibious.

The strike force phase involved exercises to train First Fleet carriers, cruisers, frigates and destroyers in all types of naval warfare.

In the amphibious phase, Marine units landed on the beach at Coronado, Calif., and made an assault landing at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Charles R. Stokes

FT. POLK, LA. — Army Private Charles R. Stokes, 20, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lamar R. Stokes, and wife, JoAnn, live at East Stroudsburg R.D. 2, has completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training at Ft. Polk, La. His last week of training was spent in guerrilla warfare exercises.

During his guerrilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-16 rifle, M-60 machine gun and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Neil A. Mengel

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. — Neil A. Mengel, son of Alvin P. Mengel of Bangor R.D. 3, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the United States Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The lieutenant, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to Vance AFB, Okla. for pilot training.

LT. Mengel, a 1964 graduate of Bangor Area Joint Senior High School, received a Bachelor of Arts degree in mathematics this year from East Stroudsburg State College.

Ronald H. Horst

AMARILLO, TEX. — Airman Ronald H. Horst, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Horst of East Stroudsburg R.D. 3, has completed basic training at Amarillo Air Force Base, Texas.

He has been assigned to the Air Force Technical Training Center at Lowry AFB, Colo., for specialized schooling as a munitions specialist.

Horst, a 1967 graduate of Pocono Mountain High School, Swiftwater, has studied at East Stroudsburg State College.

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Extremes (a tendency now) can slow you down, make action less efficient. Set a tempo commensurate with this day's actual needs. Project some new thinking into usual routine.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Planetary influences now suggest a reappraisal of forthcoming undertakings in the light of latest developments. A time for broadening your mental horizons and pursuing your goals with zest, but with patience, too.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Where projects are flourishing, continue with present procedure, but if changes are necessary, make them—without regret! Fine advantages indicated.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Avoid making hasty decisions now. Keep eyes open, ears attuned to suggestions, but evaluate thoroughly before going ahead. Hidden benefits possible.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may experience a feeling of restlessness now, yearning for a change—any kind of relief from monotony, but try to shake it off. This is not a time to bypass obligations and look for "greener fields."

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — The whole chain will be useless if one link is weak. A time for re-evaluating your position, your attitude, your approach to all matters. Through will power, you can stabilize "cloudy" situations.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Where a flaw shows up in your schedule, work promptly to eradicate. Don't "let it go." It will not correct itself. Be ready, eager to revamp program.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Immediate results of your efforts may not be apparent. Some obviously unattainable. Work to gain in other ways. Remember that certain undertakings mature slowly, require more attention than others.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — The position of Jupiter suggests that you move in a decisive, knowing manner. Don't allow any feeling of futility to supersede your usual ambition. Capitalize on all bona fide offerings.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — A promising outlook, but reject dubious ideas and suggestions. Determine the worth of all propositions before commitment. And DO avoid a procrastination.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — When it is your turn, speak! When it is not, DON'T. Be neither foolishly submissive nor stubbornly aggressive. Either could hurt your chances.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Even if your schedule is crowded, don't refuse to do a little "extra" if it will help a project along. It will pay in the long run.

YOU BORN TODAY: This is the Cuspical period of Libra-Scorpio, and you have the combined traits of both signs, with the more dominant characteristics of each outstanding, making you a powerful candidate for success. Be careful not to override others as you drive onward, however. Your very nature thrives under pressure and, in a busy day and age, you are alive with enthusiasm, willingness. Stop occasionally to retrace steps, find a "lost" but still workable idea, intention, cause, or even a hobby which can enrich your life. Control emotions; take setbacks in stride. Birthdate of George Saintsbury, author.

Voice of Broadway

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — It's Autumn in New York and as in the Vernon Duke song, it brings Manhattan its most sophisticated season . . . You walk to a newsstand at Madison and 59th and have a reunion with Ginger Rogers and her husband Bill Marshall, who's reply to "What's new?" is a proud, "I've lost 56 pounds." He looks it . . . Ginger looks maybe 35 if you don't weigh the huge dark glasses worn as a protection against the elements.

"The Flip Side" was a new to New York alleged comedy which somehow enjoyed a two-season run in London which it won't have here or the critics will masticate one of Roz Russell's scarves in Galanos' window . . . This small bore at the Booth was produced by Frederick Brisson, Roz' husband, who somehow has managed to attach some stylish scenic and costume touches to a dreadfully dreary monotony.

It's about a pair of attractive young English couples, one a writer, the other his publisher, who get down to the nutty-rutty straight off and decide to swap mates right in the publisher's Sussex home.

The production proceeds on the smutty assumption such overdone perversion might be shocking, but in a year wherein "Hair" inflicts its dirty follies on the Broadway air, "The Flip Side" seemed almost innocent in its trashy untidiness; no, not innocent — make that ignorant of the cynically cashable filth in ugly fashion at the moment.

The title is a recording industry phrase meaning the other side of a record from the song that's the hit; ergo, herein the flip side is the aberrated opposite to monogamy, or decency . . . It was written by Hugh and Margaret Williams for an American cast including David McCallum of "Man From U.N.C.L.E.," an attractive performer with a mild role and muted style; for Don Francks, an equally agreeable mummer who looks like a younger Burt Lancaster with a sudden infusion of charm and personality; though we agree versus Lancaster such charm and personality do seem contrasts in terms . . . The wives as acted and directed are 13th-carbon-copies of the ladies of flair and fling in those forgotten Freddy Lonsdale tennis-anyone trifles, strive for the acidulous, brittle snootiness of dated old drawing room comedies lines aimed at the audience instead of each other, and the fault is not entirely theirs but the imitation-stylish writing and the early-thirties direction (by Fred Hebert).

They swap spouses (Monica Evans and Gwyda Dothowe) and again it's an old trite stage fault intrinsic to these trivialities: all the unmoral action perforce takes place offstage and the abruptly unattractive confrontations in the anticipatory scenes and later the sickly recapitulations after intermission are stated at the lowest, slowest, uninteresting level of attention.

The happy ending comes after two divorces and remarriages and the doubtless romantic notion of one of the original married couples uncoupling their dreary complications to run off to their original lethargic state in time for Christmas; which this limp little nonsense won't be around for.

The show was far better out front . . . Brisson's theatrical touch went shoddy but let's face it, Freddy really is full of chic: the first night audience was awash with smart names, attractive evening clothes, Freddy's wife Roz Russell of course duded out luxuriously in the latest cliche — evening pants; plus a herringbone-woven mink topper.

The ladies' costumes onstage were by James Galanos and were striking enough to rate individual applause; they were youthful and "kicky" as the fashion phrase goes, and were only matched for the evening's sparse honors by the single setting, designed by Hutchinson Scott; otherwise, the play's the thing; a thoroughly awful thing.

But it was a dazzling first night, full of the so-called Beautiful People enjoying their Beautiful Privileges — right up to the moment the curtain went up.

Ralph Bellamy stopped off in New York on the way to Europe to make a movie just to visit his god-daughter and hoist a tippie; Dina Merrill and Cliff Robertson in obvious delight over the fine reviews for Cliff's "Charly" movie; Fred Astaire taking bows for his "Finian's Rainbow" film and giving Broadway the distinction it rarely gets, including at a flip-side premiere.
